Velazquez
- Radha Patel: “Hi everyone, It’s Radha the chapter chair for CALPIRG at UCLA. It’s great to see you all again. I just wanted to give a quick update for you all. As a student-run non-profit, we know we need a big team of students joining us in all of our campaigns to go up against some of the biggest special interests like the oil and gas industries. So to do that, we spent the first two weeks of the quarter recruiting new students to join and we are into our second week of our recruitment drive looking for students who want to be involved with us. So far, we actually made over 50 announcements and classes and have over 500 interest cards from students who want to get involved with us. We’ve also collected over 600 petitions for all of our campaigns and it’s super exciting to really see that students are still excited about getting involved in making a change. Even though we are virtual right now, this will all accumulate in our kickoff meeting happening Wednesday of Week 3 where we have the goal of getting 100 students to join. Thank you all!”

- Public comment is concluded at 7:10pm.

Campaign Goals: Our four student elected campaigns:

1. ACQUIRE: Holistic and centered on student success and wellbeing
   - Menstrual Equity: Because no student should suffer at the hands of gender inequity
   - In collaboration with organizations such as Free the Period California on providing menstrual hygiene products in bathrooms, across the UC and all public education sectors.
   - UCSA successfully lobbied for AB367 and the bill was signed into law on Oct. 6th.
   - UCSA adopted a budget of %1.5M to provide hygiene products and fund the Implementation of menstrual equity staffers.
   - This is a critical part of our advocacy that students can be directly involved in.

2. FundTheUC: Tackling affordability with the UC
   - Tackling affordability of higher education through doubling the pell grant.
   - Currently, we are working on increasing the Pell Grant through budget reconciliation.
   - Budget Reconciliation: a special parliamentary procedure of the United States Congress set up to expedite the passage of certain budgetary legislation in the United States Senate.
   - We’ve partnered with the UC-FGR team and reached out to other student associations to maximize our efforts.

3. UCweVOTE: Expanding access to the polls
   - Pushing to expand access to the polls via ensuring students do not need to pick between attending class and voting.
   - UCSA is working to develop cost-analysis surveys to better account for the costs and impacts on our non-student partners.
   - Engaging in multi-pronged strategies such as legislative and university affairs to ensure students, staff, and faculty always have access to their civil liberties.

4. Racial Justice Now!: Fighting for racial justice and equity within the UC
   - Reinvesting in our communities through siphoning funds from policing and funneling these funds into campus-based resources.
   - Coordinating efforts across the 9 undergraduate campuses to pressure the UC into redistributing funds.
   - Enforcing oversight over the UC and UCPD through appointing student observers to various UCoP and UC Board of Regent committees.

Operations and Expansion:
- Thanks to the continued support of our sister campuses, UCSA will benefit from an increase in revenue.

For the past 1 week, FSC has been working on the following initiatives:
- Got the green light from Student Government Accounting to use FSC funds to purchase 200 N95 masks for student workers. FSC and GR2 are distributing them tomorrow (Wednesday Jan 12) on Bruinwalk as a test run!
- Met with new FSC staffer who will be iterating on the existing USAC Expenditure Viewer to decide what direction to take it. This year’s finances will be added, the demo video will be updated, colors in graphics will be made more distinct for easier viewing, and we will focus on revamping the textual aspects of the site to be fully compatible with voiceover and other text-to-speech accessibility software.
- UCLA Store successfully launched the Blue Books and Scantron Sheets program that FSC coordinated, in which 6 of those materials each will be made available to any student who asks at the UCLA Store counter.
- Delayed start of FSC Academic Materials Rental Program (lab coats, goggles, iClickers) to when the remote instruction period is lifted, which is currently slated to be January 31st.

Over the past holiday, FSC was working on the following initiatives:
- Coordinating handoff of 2000 Blue Books and 2000 Scantron Sheets to the Student Retention Center— anticipate this happening Week 1 or 2.
- UCLA Store told me over the break that they were ready to go with distributing Blue Books and Scantron Sheets to students for free beginning Winter Quarter, but I am waiting for an update on this due to the switch to remote learning that occurred later in the break.
- Arduino Kit Donation Drive: collecting any new or gently used Arduino kits used in engineering classes to expand our academic materials loaner program to lend out to students.
- Purchase order of new lab coats for the FSC Academic Materials Rental Program went through, awaiting the delivery amid slow supply chain.
- Delayed start of FSC Academic Materials Rental Program (lab coats, goggles, iClickers) to when the remote instruction period is lifted, which is currently slated to be Tuesday of Week 3.
- Revamping the FSC Academic Materials Rental Program application to include a new accountability form for students who borrow to sign, and attempting to make it such that the form will close when the number of signups equals the number of available materials to mitigate shortage in demand.

O. International Student Representative Written

International Student Representative Written

- Garcia

O. Administrative Representatives

- Alexander, Chacon, O’Connor, Luna, Perez, Solomon

- Josh: “Just want to make sure all of the appointments have been made at this point. I know we had a shack member resign so we will probably need to elect a new shack member. Also, I just want to remind folks that changes to the agenda need to be made by Friday when it is sent out. It should be finalized to minimize any additions when we get here, particularly anything that we are going to vote on so that it is open to the public. So I am going to hold strong to that. It needs to be out to the public prior to when Cass makes the agenda public.”

- Patty: “Just a reminder if you are bringing and we can chat more in the next session but I just want to send a reminder as Fernando and I had mentioned, we are happy to meet with everyone if you have any surplus projects, just to kind of brainstorm and go through some best practices prior to bringing them to council so just let us know. I believe Fernando may have reached out to a meeting so look forward to meeting with you all soon to hear about these amazing projects. Perfect, thank you.”

IX. Old Business

USAC Surplus Discussion

Velazquez

Breeze: “I guess following you know last week’s discussions, what Patty, Josh and I were talking about was kind of easing the workload on like not only the student directors that we have in our offices but also using the work of Patty and the team that they have in ASUCLA about those checks that they have to send and instead of having it be like a program that UCLA runs itself, not necessarily UCLA but us setting the guidelines and something that we could also make sure that we still have control over. SO for example, for the proposal that passes I brought forward, if we were to want to like instead meeting with the transportation team and having it be a scholarship or like a refund that could be provided by the office when we give this fund away to them and having us posted and have it be promoted and linked in maybe the bio of like a USAC Instagram so that students can directly head to that site and get like I guess return for example if they were to submit their receipts. The same thing goes for the job loss, especially right now that a lot of students may have rights and if we wanted to bring forth giving like those funds having to be through like ECRT and also posting about it and promoting it. That way folks also know its a council wide thing and they know that we’re properly using our surplus funds to distribute to students and also having it be over an administrative head rather than having it be directed through multiple different avenues and not having to have students apply for like fifty dollars here, a hundred dollars here, twenty dollars here. Yeah, I just wanted to know folks’ thoughts on that especially as we bring forth other proposals. I know we didn’t talk much about the job loss one, but I did want to revamp it and like if folks were open to that like maybe looking into giving funds to the ECRT and making guidelines such that we might want ECRT to look over. In order to make sure that you know those funds are properly being used. Do folks have any questions and like Patty and Josh please jump in if I mistook anything or misspoke.”
Josh: “No you were right on. The conversation that Breeze and Patty and I really were focusing on is how do you have a larger impact. So one of the examples that we did provide that Breeze was just touching upon is you know let’s say we wanted to give ten thousand dollars to commuters and instead of giving fifty dollar you know individual checks you donate that full ten thousand to transportation and then you say you tell the transportation office that the first 100 transfer students that come in and buy a parking permit, they get 25% off their price just to have that larger impact. So that was kind of the idea that we were kind of going with. That would also really help ASUCLA because now as you all heard in the last meeting, there’s a departure of their staff member so they have less folks and still a lot more work to do so we want to find that equal balance that really supports everybody.”

Patty: “Oh no, perfect thank you so much. No, I thought it was really beautifully placed and the only other thing I wanted to mention was just also the streamlined access and less work on the students as well. So that’s one of the goals we had is you know it’s a lot of work on all the students involved. If there has to be an application to fill out and then a committee created guidelines submitted, approved by council, then those allocations made receipts, collected, returned then checks cut so we’re trying to get the funding to students in as expedited a way of matter possible. Sometimes it is more efficient working with programs that already exist so that’s another reason we’re trying to think outside the box about how we can support the most students with these projects without putting too big of a burden on your offices themselves to allocate new projects and funding solutions. Yeah, so that’s just something I want to bring up to folks.”

Promise: “Thank you guys so much for doing this. Just like talking through everything, I guess my main concern more so comes from the fact that I like doing things like ensuring that students are actually going to be able to get these funds and have access to these funds right away. I think also with ECRT, I am just weary of like a student being offered a loan instead. So we can put guidelines and like those guidelines would have to be added to. I guess we will still have oversight over it if that makes sense. So for example, if we want to say like they will not be loans like that is something I want to make sure is outlined right. I guess my next question is because I know it’s a financial aid thing, but I am also kind of trying to understand why it would affect students’ financial aid considering students are the ones who are paying into it in the first place. So if we give the funds to specific departments, how is that going to translate like as a student who has maxed out their amount of financial aid already. Unable to apply for extra funds and like to receive them, they can be offered like a loan. So I guess that’s kind of like where I am at with that because then that defeats the purpose of a relief like overall relief fund.

UC Wide Covid Protocols:

X. New Business

DDC Proposal for USAC

- The Lily Shaw Disability Cultural Center Stipend Proposal:
  - In our society, disability is seldom seen as an identity akin to gender/race/sexuality, etc. Because of this, many disabled people are not exposed to disability justice, culture, and community. A Disability Cultural Center on UCLA’s campus will aid in creating a community that has historically been ignored by the institution while raising awareness for disability on a broader scale

- Lily Shaw and her Legacy:
  - The founding of the Disabled Student Union at UCLA
  - Creating further activism, sustaining the DSU
  - UC-Wide Student Activism
  - “Students with Disabilities” Item at November 2020 Regents Meeting
  - Accessibility Regulations in Student Government & Elections
  - COVID-19 Activism
  - Digital accessibility trainings, advocacy for hybrid classes

- Why a DCC?
  - Disability Culture and Community at UCLA is bigger than ever
  - Currently, there is no established space for disabled individuals
  - Accessible space on campus is extremely limited
  - As a marginalized identity, disabled students deserve a safe space to find solidarity within each others’ experiences

- Why a Stipend?
- Long-term project with many institutional barriers but no monetary support from UCLA
- Importance of paying students for their labor
- Difficulty of completing a project as an extracurricular
- No campus jobs earmarked for disabled students in general, especially for engaging in necessary activism
- Long-term project impact requires immense labor

- What the Stipend Would Be:
  - Two $1,500 stipends and one $2,000 stipend for students spearheading the DCC Project and bringing it to its completion
  - One stipend to support the work of the current activist on the project this year
  - Two stipends to support the work of future activists for the 2022 - 2023 school year
  - Stipends will be dispersed equally amongst 3 quarters
  - Stipends will allow students to dedicate labor to the project, ultimately allowing it to come to completion

- Actions and Plans:
  - 2020-21 Actions
    - Drafted Proposal
    - Connected with EDI, Disability Studies Minor, UCOD, ASUCLA, LGBT Center, Jim LeBrecht (Crip Camp), UC-wide activists
  - 2021-2022 Actions
    - Connected with ASUCLA representatives and identified a space
    - Presented GSA with a Proposal and created a relationship with them
    - Solidify a space agreement in Kerckhoff
  - Plans for 2022-2023 Stipended Students
    - Lead the design plans and proposed renovations
    - See through the physical renovation and prepare opening programming

- Summary:
  - $5,000
  - $3,000 for two future stipends
  - $2,000 for one current stipend
  - Stipends allow marginalized students to be paid for their labor and ultimately will allow the project to be successful.
  - Disabled students deserve space on campus.

SIOC & CRC Funding Proposal

XI. Adjournment

- Breese adjourns the meeting at 8:30pm.
