Each of our projects focuses on a particular issue in areas ranging from poverty & houselessness, to education, to health, and beyond.
- Meet IP (Internal Programming):
  - The Internal Programming Committee (IP) works to execute large-scale service events that take place on UCLA's campus. By hosting one large scale service event per quarter, we aim to introduce students to the possibilities of community service and what CSC has to offer.

VII. Appointments
VIII. Officer Reports
A. President Velazquez
- We are still continuing the strike in Murphy Hall until are demands or met or until further notice. We are all still out there.
- In Office of the President, we are continuing to plan our Future Student Leaders of Color Conference. Our interns were presented this week and programming and workshops are happening this week.
- Outreach is going well for the Student Leaders of Tomorrow Fellowship that we are working on. We are also working on funding applications and have constructed a curriculum for the fellowship.
- We are just working on following up with presenters for the workshops.
- For our online mental health platform that we recently made, we launched an Instagram and we already have posts up for anyone that is interested. We have connected with two campus mental health organizations to co-program events for the rest of the year.
- We are also working on a new section called By Students For Students. This is basically for resources and they are going to be holding a meeting with staff to arrange all of this.
B. Internal Vice President

- The Strength and Student Wellbeing Committee attended the mental health collaboration meeting last night and they were able to present some research that they have done around student’s mental health.
- The Empower Resilient Community directors and I are in communication with CARE again so that we can talk about the next steps to establish a toolkit for student awards.
- Last Friday, we had the annual off-campus living fair and we had a good attendance of like over 100 students online.
- We are also planning on releasing a digital brochure for students who weren’t able to attend, so the students have resources in terms of finding off campus housing.
- We are working on increasing engagement in the Student Work Leadership Lobby. We are promoting that even more to share as many resources as possible.
- The IVP Winter Internship’s first class was two weeks ago.
- Lastly, Campus Safety Alliance and I are in the process of writing a letter to share concerns from students on how the threat made last week was handled. As you know, administration failed to notify students in a timely manner.

C. External Vice President

- The main thing that I want to share tonight is that we have a Q/A with congressman Adam Schiff. He represents the 28th district which is like San Gabriel Valley/East LA. It is really exciting that we get to host such a high profile speaker and he is also chairman of the house Intelligence Committee and has a ton of experience.
- I would really appreciate if you all could tell your offices to come and ask some questions and support. Just to make sure that UCLA represents in this event.
- Another congressional candidate we got to work with in partnership with Armand’s office in Breeze’s office was Maude Rezzy. He is a Connecticut candidate but he was in LA for the week and it is really cool to see a progressive Muslim candidate talk to UCLA students. I think he stopped by the strike as well so that was super cool.
- The state relations team is like super close with SCA 5 which is the second student vote bill and also AB524 which is transparency for fraternities and sororities on college campuses.
- Our federal relations team is going to be hosting a Title IX panel. It is not like the training that we go through but it is like more policy oriented. IF you are interested in where that is in Congress right now.
- We are also still planning that local relations CD5 town hall and the Mayoral town hall which ASUCLA has been super helpful with that so that will be really cool in Ackerman Grand Ballroom.
- Our university relations has done a lot of great work with CALFRESH and it is now going to be accepted at all the ASUCLA registers. Pro tip that I learned is that if there is a Starbucks inside the grocery store that you use CALFRESH at, it will also be accepted, so go get your Starbucks drinks with that EBT.
- My study space team is working with Click at the UCLA Library to implement a pilot program of an app that shows the capacity of click student space and after a month of piloting we will be transitioning to implementing this for the entire Powell library and hopefully in future years it will be expanded to the other libraries.
- We had a meeting with the Center for Advancement on teaching today. We launched the website that is resources for professors to implement recorded and hybrid options.
- We are currently in the process of recording a video with student testimonies on how hybrid learning has helped them in the past and will continue to help them and which learning modalities have worked so far for professors who have implemented them.
- We are also planning to host a healing space event in collaboration with some different USAC offices and with the holistic wellness coalition amidst the recent events that have happened around campus.
- We also released a running document with professors that have been accommodating just to help students navigate enrollment.
- I am also working with the LMS team on the learning management systems team to help them with getting closed captions on lectures that are being uploaded to Bruin Learn since I know folks have been having trouble with that so they are working on resetting the features to make sure that all lectures are being uploaded will be done through Cultura which is a closed captioning service so that all lectures will have that option.

- George: “Hey everyone, good to see everyone. Hope everyone’s doing okay. So I don’t know if you all heard from last year but the Alumni Association created their first ever changemaker summit. It is a summit for alumni to learn more about diversity, equity, and inclusion. So we are having it again on March 19th and 11th. Although it is strictly for alumni I am sure they are open for students but I will double check with them to see. So if you are interested in like diversity, equity, inclusion conversations getting more information and what that looks like you can definitely check it out. Secondly, I think you all heard about this one, but dinner for 12 Strangers is happening this year and it looks like we are going for in-person events today so if you haven’t heard about Dinner for 12 Strangers, it is basically a time for students and alumni to come together and have dinner. It is a pretty cool tradition. I have done it one time with alumni and it was cool, but weird at the same time. It is really a toss up in the type of thing that you are going to get with that. But from what I have usually heard, it is pretty awesome because the alumni and students get to know each other better as well as just to provide a dinner for the students. So definitely check that out if you are interested. Lastly, although not strictly from the Alumni Association, I am a part of the UCLA advocacy group which also connects alumni to big advocacy goals that the UC regents implement on a yearly basis. There is this cool tool that showcases the new legislative boundaries that were implemented recently. Additionallaly it seems like the UC’s are going all in to really ensure and advocate for the Sepulveda Transit Corridor. So if you are interested in that I can borrow it to you via Slack but other than that, that's it on my end.”

- Orlando: “Hello everyone, I hope you all are doing well. I just want to give you an update. SOLE will be hosting a series of workshops in the next few weeks. Groups have been requesting, there's been a little confusion on what they can and can’t do on and off campus as far as you know catering, social events, conferences. So we are going to be hosting a series. The first one that is coming up in next Thursday at 4pm. I will have more information but it will be on funding and we have actually reached out to FICOM and the program activities board to send representatives in addition to SOLE advisors to kind of talk to student groups about what has been funded, what hasn’t been funded, tips and strategies and so we will be hosting that next Thursday. Then there will be some follow-up workshops afterwards that I will have more information at our next meeting. But that’s all I have.”

- Patricia: “Hi everyone, good evening, just a couple of updates. We are really excited to be partnering with the Dashe Center for this Sunday. We are going to be having a Super Bowl Watch Party in our Ackerman Grand Ballroom. If you want to come out and have fun watching with your classmates come on out. It will be a really nice time and then secondly we are collaborating with CEC coming up next week for our outdoor movie night in the WESCOM Student Terrace so we are really excited for that. Looking forward to some really fun and collaborative big events coming up in the spring quarter so I will keep you posted. Thank you.”

A Resolution in Support of the Buy Your Values UCLA Campaign

A Resolution in Support of the Buy Your Values UCLA Campaign to Push UCLA to Carry Worker-Friendly and Environmentally Sustainable Apparel

Sponsored by:

Jane Ni, Facilities Commissioner
Angelina Quint, Academic Affairs Commissioner
Hailey Valles, General Representative One

WHEREAS, Buy Your Values UCLA is a student-run campaign to bring worker empowerment, worker democracy, and environmental justice to UCLA’s licensed apparel retail and to educate the student body on the importance of pushing for a more ethical future;

WHEREAS, the global garment industry is heavily reliant on a mass workforce, in some countries making up a majority of the workforce both in factories as well as in home-work;

WHEREAS, the industry has purposefully outsourced production away from countries with higher minimum wage floors, stronger collective bargaining laws, and more stringent worker protection rights, which has led to particularly awful violations of workers’ health and safety during the COVID-19 pandemic;

WHEREAS, the effect of the global garment industry, specifically the onset of fast fashion, has led to an industry which contributes 20% of the world’s wastewater during the toxic dyeing process, plastic microfiber pollution of our oceans, and excessive consumption of clothing (much of which ends up in landfills);”

1 https://www.wiego.org/garment-workers
3 https://osci.princeton.edu/tips/2020/7/20/the-impact-of-fast-fashion-on-the-environment
WHEREAS, UCLA Trademarks & Licensing’s purpose is to “Promote, protect, and enhance the UCLA brand’s reputation by thoughtfully managing and controlling the use of the UCLA® brand name on consumer products and ensuring that “UCLA” appears only on quality products that are produced under fair, safe, and humane working conditions”; ¹

WHEREAS, 1998, the University of California, like many other universities in the late 90s, adopted a Code of Conduct to address supply chain transparency and minimum standards for workplace safety, after the organizing of United Students Against Sweatshops, US college students organizing in solidarity with garment workers; ²

WHEREAS, the Code enforces standards regarding: wages and benefits, child labor, forced labor, health & safety, nondiscrimination, women’s rights, harassment and abuse, and freedom of association and collective bargaining, through monitoring organizations such as the Worker Rights Consortium and Fair Labor Association;

WHEREAS, the Code acts as leverage to hold companies accountable for meeting these standards, but many of our licensees do not meet these standards throughout the supply chain, and while some companies make genuine efforts, others are not willing to further investigate their suppliers;

WHEREAS, there exist companies which meet higher environmental standards through small-batch production and recycling/upcycling measures and higher worker empowerment standards through clear collective bargaining agreements and cooperative worker-ownership;

WHEREAS, one of the few licensees to live up to the Code was Alta Gracia, a living-wage, unionized garment factory in the Dominican Republic, which had to close its shutters during the pandemic;

WHEREAS, the Code currently states no benchmarks specifically regarding environmental rights or protections, as researched by the Sustainability Action Research UCLA Licensing Team last year; ³

WHEREAS, in 2020, UCOP created the UC Sustainable Practices Policy,⁴ which was said to govern UC-wide procurement and operations sustainability standards, but had little to say about textile, garment, and apparel procurement;

WHEREAS, the Buy Your Values campaign, housed in the USAC Facilities Commission, has put on several panels & workshops over the past two years, featuring partners from Alta Gracia, Carolina Textile District, UCLA Trademarks & Licensing, Ethix Merch, Garment Worker Center, Refine LA, Labor 411, and the Student Labor Advocacy Project;

WHEREAS, in February 2021 we released a student-directed survey with 150+ responses, with notable findings being that cost, aesthetics, and ethical production constitute top factors when purchasing, and that clearer identification and greater availability/variety would make students more open to purchasing ethical products;⁵

WHEREAS, in March 2021, we began discussions with UCLA Trademarks & Licensing and the UCLA Store on our current demands, which included the development of a small pilot program to order increasingly greater quantities of products meeting certain labor and environmental standards;

WHEREAS, beginning in May 2021, we began organizing in solidarity with the Garment Worker Center’s campaign to pass SB 62, also known as the Garment Worker Protection Act, which sought to close piece-rate wage loopholes and strengthen enforcement of labor laws;

WHEREAS, in December 2021, we refined our campaign goals around a selected few companies to pitch to the UCLA Store and Campus Store, which meet higher standards of worker democracy, worker empowerment, and environmental justice, and to amend the Code of Conduct to include environmental provisions;

THEREFORE LET IT BE RESOLVED, the USAC affirms its support for the efforts of the Buy Your Values UCLA campaign to bring ethical and sustainable options to UCLA retail, and to amend the current Code of Conduct;

FINALLY LET IT BE RESOLVED, the USAC affirms to sign onto the letter of support to be delivered to the UCLA Store and Campus Store as a measure of campus-wide support for this effort.

Sepulveda Transit Corridor Letter
Ni/Cooper
To the Los Angeles Metro Board of Directors,

My name is -------- and I am the --[position]---- on the UCLA Undergraduate Students Associated Council (USAC). USAC represents over 30,000 undergraduate students at UCLA. Last year, our council unanimously passed “A Resolution For A Direct UCLA/ Westwood Purple Line Stop on the Sepulveda Transit Corridor,” which is attached to this comment letter. We want to emphasize that undergraduate students are stakeholders in the LA Metro scoping process and affirm the importance of including student input equally as stakeholders in any scoping processes.

A Sepulveda Transit Corridor without a direct, underground Metro station on the UCLA campus and a direct, underground connection to the Purple/D Line does a grave disservice to the students of the number 1 public university in the nation, the number 1 hospital in the state, and an immensely important institution in the Los Angeles Region.

Sincerely,

Westwood Village Specific Plan Letter
Ni/Cooper

- Los Angeles City Planning has released an updated draft ordinance to amend the Westwood Village Specific Plan. This draft will be reviewed by the City Planning Commission (CPC) on Thursday, February 10, 2022.
- These amendments are desperately needed. The Specific Plan has not kept up with the rapidly evolving retail landscape and changing consumer preferences and the result is a crippling Q4 2021 vacancy rate in Westwood Village of 39.4%. The amendments will support local businesses by simplifying regulations for food uses, parking, and signage requirements.
- How Can You Help?
- Please submit a letter of support to the LA City Planning Commission. Enter your name, email, and zip code in the box provided, and then click Start Writing to be directed to your pre-written draft support letter (which can also be edited if you choose). Copies of this letter will also be sent to Councilmember Paul Koretz, Council District 5, and the WVIA.
- The WVIA will keep you up to date on the public process to amend the Plan.
- For more details on LA City Planning’s recommendations, please see the City’s Recommendation Report, FAQ, and the draft ordinance.
- Thank you for your support!
